Botte mixer taps by Angelettiruzza Design for Cristina Rubinetterie

Dezeen staff | 17 March 2025

Dezeen Showroom: created by Angelettiruzza Design for Italian tapware brand Cristina Rubinetterie, this mixer tap features smooth and sinuous shapes.

Part of Cristina Rubinetterie's Contemporary collection, the Botte taps' continuous lines and flowing forms are drawn from natural phenomena such as water droplets and wind-swept sand dunes.

The Botte range features gently sloping lines

"Its harmonious lines establish a profound dialogue with its user, transforming daily gestures into sensory and fulfilling experiences," said Cristina Rubinetterie.

Made of solid brass, the Botte range includes options for the sink, bath and shower, and is customisable with a choice of finishes.

These include the brand's new Infinity Black PVD, which uses physical vapor deposition technology to achieve a rich depth of colour, and Imperial Black, which has a brushed effect reminiscent of chrome.

"Designed to enrich spaces with distinctive details, Botte transforms every environment into an experience of wellness and beauty, demonstrating that even essential elements can become pure poetry," said Cristina Rubinetterie.
